

The Acadian Flag - Like the flag of France, it is blue, white, and red. The gold star at the top left is the Stella Maris (Star of the Sea), there to seek the guidance and protection of the Virgin Mary, patron saint of the Acadians. This flag represents Acadians worldwide.

The Nova Scotia Flag - The background of the flag is an extended blue cross on a white background, a reversal of the colours found on the Cross of Saint Andrew, symbolizing Nova Scotia's links to Scotland. In the centre of the flag is a Royal Lion set within a double red border on a yellow or gold background.
